Pinewood Toronto Studios is Canada's largest film and television production complex. In August 2008, the studios officially opened for business. This complex adds more than 250,000 sq.ft. of production space to Toronto's film facilities and includes North America's largest purpose-built soundstage, eight soundproof stages, localized support facilities and office space.

This landmark complex has its roots in the City of Toronto's overall strategy to strengthen the competitiveness of Toronto's film industry. Build Toronto is the landlord and currently holds a minority investment in the studio.
